BRITAIN AT RISK

Beaches, Rivers, Forests and Countryside

by Ian Anderson

BRITISH GOVERNMENTS FOR the last 50 years or so seem only to have been able to think of land in terms of two things — MONEY and VOTES.

Beautiful countryside is turned into industrial concrete monstrosities while the Government pretends it isn't happening in case they lose votes. Votes are then won back by bribes, using money received from industrialists and the unions.

But Britain's land, Britain's rivers, Britain's beaches and seas are more precious than this. They are not ours to use as we like, to destroy and wreck, they are ours in trust only — ours to preserve and improve, to enhance so that they are handed onto the next generation in a better condition than we receive them.

In these terms all the governments of the last 50 years have been a failure. The National Front is committed to regard our islands as an integral part of our heritage, not to be exploited for a quick profit but to be loved, to be cared for and to be preserved.

THE DISGRACE OF BRITAIN'S BEACHES

IF YOU GO on holiday to a seaside resort in this country it might be a good idea to find a local doctor before you go. According to a report shortly to be issued by Greenpeace some of our beaches have levels of bacteria five times higher than agreed international standards and 100 times more than permitted in North America.

On 24th May thousands of gallons of excrement polluted beaches between Eastney and Portsmouth in Hampshire because a pipe valve had been left open. Usually this effluence is discharged further out to sea — so that only some of it reaches back to the beaches.

Because of this type of irresponsible action the Government has only been able to designate 27 out of Britain's 600 beaches as 'bathing beaches' according to normal international standards. This is fewer than Luxembourg which has no coastline!!

DESTRUCTION OF THE COUNTRYSIDE

AT THE END of a 143 day public inquiry in April the Department of Transport and the Department of the Environment decided to overrule objections from countryside campaigners and drive a dual-carriageway between the M1 and the A1 in Northamptonshire.

This is only part of a new main trunk road originating in the heart of Industrial Europe — the German Ruhr valley — and driving right into the central midlands of England. Along this road will come lorry-loads of foreign imports throwing more British workers out of jobs.

The road itself will go through the historic Civil War battlefield of Naseby and will attract secondary industrial development which could destroy thousands of acres of some of England's loveliest countryside.

In Kent the Channel Tunnel and the consequent road and industrial developments are threatening the whole of East Kent. The increase in traffic is likely to destroy whole village communities.

But perhaps the greatest threat to the countryside is the decision of the Government earlier this year to allow industrial development on what is currently designated as agricultural land. This move has been heavily criticised by organisations such as the Council for the Protection of Rural England and is bound to lead to an increase in industrial eyesores in our rural countryside.

DECAY OF BRITAIN'S WOODLANDS & FORESTS

BRITAIN'S FORESTRY land is being rapidly bought up by individuals and institutions as a way of avoiding tax. Because forestry produces a low income but rapidly increase in value it has become an ideal way of investing surplus cash without attracting much tax.

The people who are buying forestry land have no interest in the land itself — simply the money. As a result our woodlands are becoming fenced estates of monotonous conifer trees, employing fewer and fewer people doing little to enhance our countryside.

Since 1960 the number of people employed in forestry has fallen from about 12,000 to barely 4,000, yet woodland has enormous potential — last year some 24 million people visited Forestry Commission forests.

What is called for is an improvement in the proportion of hardwood trees — beech trees, oaks, ashes, elms etc. — they may be less productive in terms of timber but in terms of giving pleasure to those who visit them they are immeasurably superior and with the right tourist and educational facilities they could also become economically attractive.

BISHOP AGREES WITH 'A FEW' FRONT POLICIES

THE RT. REV. Tony Dumper, the Bishop of Dudley, who had said that he would join a National Front demonstration in Birmingham against the IRA, has admitted that he agrees with 'quite a few' National Front policies.

The Bishop, in the end decided against joining the NF counter demonstration saying that he had provisionally agreed because he thought the demo was 'part of a wide ranging community response to the IRA'.

In a letter to West Midlands Regional Organiser, John Hill he said,

'For reasons which I am sure you will understand I do not think it would be possible for me to appear on a National Front platform. . . . Thank you for your invitation but I fear there is not sufficient common ground between us for me to join you on this occasion'.

SYMPATHY

But Rev. Dumper did read Joe Pearce's book 'Nationalist Doctrine' the cornerstone of NF ideology, sent to him by John Hill. 'I have carefully read your book Nationalist Doctrine for which I am grateful. I accept that with quite a few of the points made I am in sympathy. . .'

While the Bishop didn't agree with all said in Nationalist Doctrine by reading it he has a much better idea of what the National Front is about. The NF activities in the West Midlands during April and May have certainly given the NF plenty of publicity and got National Front policies discussed in places they've never been discussed before!

100 NF vs IRA

Six NF members were arrested in Birmingham on May 9th when more than 100 attempted to stop a pro-IRA parade through the city. The activity made the front pages of all West Midlands newspapers.

NECKLACE THREAT TO BRIXTON'S WHITE TRADERS

BUT A BRITISH BUTCHER STANDS FIRM!

A SINISTER ORGANISATION called the Black Peoples' Campaign For Justice is whipping up hatred against white traders in Brixton.

Branding Trinders the Butchers and Leslie's the Fruiterers in Brixton Market as racists and police spies a leaflet put out by the organisation deliberately incites the blacks in Brixton to take direct action to 'stamp out police spies in the community' and suggests that 'In South Africa the community necklace collaborators of the police'.

In South Africa the community "necklace" collaborators of the police!

Inciting Violence

The leaflet entitled Boycott the Butcher, Boycott the Police bears the logo of a hand holding a large sword. It calls upon the black community to take action now to put Trinders the Butcher out of business and out of Brixton.

WE WANT HIM OUT OF BRIXTON OR OUT OF BUSINESS, BUT PREFERABLY BOTH!

Inciting violence

Gangs of Blacks have been picketing Trinders throughout the first half of May and the Police were powerless to move them on because the market is private property.

Police also appear to have taken no action over the leaflet despite its clear tone of incitement to violence.

On June 3rd a spokesman for Trinders told The Flag that despite the picketing they were still in business although their trade had been hit. He said that there had been no physical attacks on the staff of the firm and that things had been quiet over the last few weeks although gangs of youths still hung around the market shouting abuse.

The FLAG has written to the Chief Constable of the Metropolitan Police to ask why no action had been taken over the leaflet.

'British' — Now a racist word

A COUNTY council looking for a new education chief used the same advertisement that helped them recruit their present education chief who is soon to retire.

But wording that didn't raise an eyebrow in 1977 failed to satisfy the race relation gestapo in 1987.

The Commission for Racial Equality were not happy that the advertisement invited applications from 'Candidates who are graduates of a British University'

The CRE told Durham Education Department that the advertisement was racist. Furthermore, they warned, it probably contravened the Race Relations Act.

The advertisement was withdrawn and replaced by one which left out the offending racist word. The word in question, in case you haven't guessed, was 'British'.

MULTI-RACIAL MURDER

SIKH EXTREMISTS murdered a Swiss national in the Punjab recently because he had married a Sikh woman in spite of being warned not to by Sikh fundamentalists.

Liberal Loonies Too

IT'S not just Labour who are loonies. The outgoing chairman of the Young Liberals, Felix Dodds, said before stepping down that Liberals should break with the Social Democrats and seek common cause with the Labour left!

Sikh starves for his sword

A SIKH went on hunger strike at Wormwood Scrubs Prison recently seeking religious concessions.

Sulekhan Singh, 30, serving life for attempted murder, wants to be allowed to wear his ceremonial dagger, to bath daily and to have food prepared by himself or brought in from a Sikh Temple in Southall.

No holds barred in the rush to recruit ethnic officers

BLACKS WHO fail the entrance examination to become officers in the West Midlands Police force are now getting a second chance!

Any member of the ethnic minorities is allowed another try by means of a 20 week course to improve numeracy and literacy. The course is designed to favour black or Asian applicants.

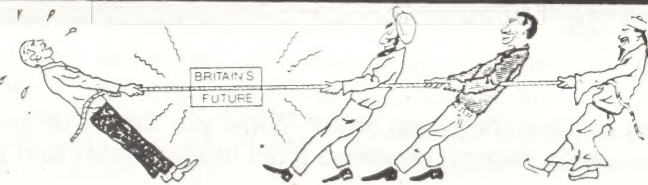

The West Midlands Force is desperate to increase its numbers of immigrant officers. Last year it even went around knocking on the doors of Blacks and Asians in Sandwell, Wolverhampton, Coventry, Walsall and Handsworth pleading with them to join the Police.

Meanwhile back at the dole office, unemployed white youngsters are forgotten and ignored, but if any of them were interested in joining the Police and then failed the entrance exam, would they get a second chance?

Black recruits getting preferential treatment.

FRIENDS OF The FLAG

MANY THANKS to Derek Dorling of Lancing, Sussex and Gary Whincup of Worthing, Sussex who last month turned out to be great Friends of The FLAG.

Derek turned up at our Worthing office just to tell the staff how much he enjoyed the paper. To show his appreciation he left a donation of £25.00.

A week later Gary, a local member from Worthing, left a £20.00 donation after buying stickers and papers from the office.

It's very rewarding to all those connected with the paper when our readers show their support for the paper in this manner.

At the moment The FLAG struggles to break even each month so donations such as the ones from Derek and Gary are especially welcome.

THANK YOU

STOP PRESS: Lambeth treasurer, Martin French has loaned the National Front £1,000 so that the drums can be bought immediately and be ready for the next NF march. This sum must be paid back as soon as possibly so please help if you can.

Milton Keynes Chairman, Steve Brady has donated £100 towards the drums and £25 has been given by Worthing Typesetting.

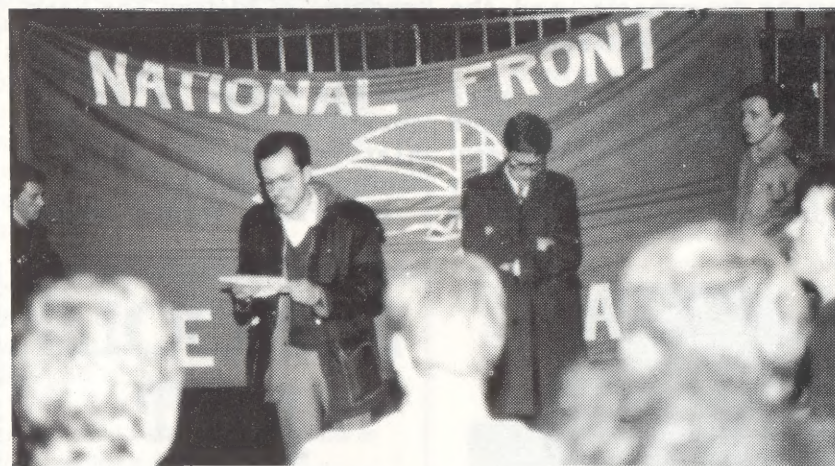

All donations will be recorded in future issues The Flag.

FRONT POLL 5%

The Best Result in Birmingham for the Last Ten Years!

by Norman Tomkinson

IF THERE WERE any doubts that Birmingham National Front is growing then the local council election result at Washwood Heath dispelled them.

West Midlands Regional Organiser and hard-working candidate John Hill achieved the best result in Birmingham for over 10 years. He polled 341 votes (4.57%).

This was a great achievement and everyone in Birmingham is delighted with the result particularly as Washwood Heath has a large coloured immigrant community so the NF vote is a much higher percentage of the white vote.

Lots of hard work went into the campaign. The ward has been consistently leafletted for the past two years and we have a steadily rising door to door paper sale round. The last two weeks of the campaign saw as many as 13 people out leafletting day and night.

Around 20 local members attended the count in Sladefield School where John Hill gave a rousing speech. Special thanks to John, Mark Rea and the members of Birmingham NF who put in a great deal of hard work and also to Dudley NF who also gave considerable help.

Meanwhile in Yardley Ward, veteran election campaigner Bob Jones polled 76 votes (0.83%). No leaflets or propaganda went out in this ward so we are not too disappointed with the result. Bob did gain good publicity on BRMB Radio when he spoke on National Front policies.

In Chelmsley Wood Ward (Solihull) I polled 60 votes which was 2.1% of the vote, not too bad when you consider only a few hundred leaflets were put out. Thanks to Martin, Mandy and Brum YNF for helping out in this ward. We should increase the vote in future. The potential support is there.

Basically we put all our resources into Washwood Heath and I think it paid dividends. Local morale has been given a great boost which can only increase the already steady growth of Birmingham NF. We are determined to stand even more candidates in future so Labour leader Dick Knowles better beware. The National Front is back with a vengeance.

LOCAL BRANCH NEWS ROUND-UP

Birmingham: Several members made it to the Albert Mariner March despite the van breaking down. Four got left behind. On the coach back members folded hundreds of leaflets for the Washwood Heath election.

Dudley: Still reaping the benefits of the Brierley Hill march by selling more copies of The FLAG. Have had their own Dudley NF T-Shirts made.

Worcester: Gaining new members and increasing its sales of The FLAG. Minibus attended the Skrewdriver concert in West Suffolk.

Coventry: Really taking off and even producing their own local NF paper. Good sales of The FLAG.

Wolverhampton: Good paper sales and a contingent attended the Brierley Hill March.

Walsall: Good turn-out for the Brierley Hill march.

ASPECTS OF EDUCATION

CHILDREN HAVE little or no historical knowledge because of a decline in educational standards, according to a paper published recently by the Centre for Policy Studies.

Stewart Deuchar, who has taught history in private and special schools, says in the paper that 'the concept of an "educated person" as the hoped-for end product of our education system has disappeared without trace in the wholesale debasement of our culture in the last two decades'.

Traditional history teachers, he says, have been increasingly attacked by left-wing education authorities and others for alleged racism, sexism, imperialism and elitism.

There has been a dramatic fall in the amount of history taught in schools, and the character of history teaching has changed.

Mr. Deuchar says a huge slice of the national heritage has been lost, and the General Certificate of Secondary Education syllabus fails to convey the life and colour of history.

■ The purpose of Education must be to instil knowledge

'This great change in the philosophy behind the teaching of history has been introduced without any regard for what the public actually wants. If we cut ourselves off from our own history we enormously diminish ourselves'.

The FLAG agrees wholeheartedly with Stuart Deuchar's comments. The purpose of education must be to instil into children a knowledge and pride in the nation's rich historical heritage. History lessons, in particular, should help children to find their roots in Britain's past, without which they will have no interest in Britain's future.

Black Schools above the law!

RACIAL SEGREGATION will be particularly important at a new independent junior school, due to open in September. Yet this school is not in Cape Town, Johannesburg or anywhere else in South Africa. It is in the city centre of Birmingham!

However, before British parents rush off to Birmingham in the hope of giving their children a white, British education, perhaps they should know that the school in question is designed especially for blacks.

GEARED

The school is being set up by the Seventh Day Adventist Church, the members of which are predominantly black. Indeed, it is well-documented that under-achievement of black children has led the church to its increasing involvement in education.

Monette Morris, who has chaired the steering committee setting up the new Birmingham school, is all in favour of 'education geared specifically towards black youngsters'.

Even before it gets off the ground, the school looks set for success. There have been inquiries from non-churchgoers and from Muslims, and there will be no difficulty in filling the classes.

The Seventh Day Adventists' best-known school is the John Loughborough in Tottenham. Only about half of its pupils come from church families, but all except one - the token white - are black.

Neither are these blacks particularly under-privileged since it costs parents £370 a term to send their children to the John Loughborough School. Nonetheless, most feel that this is a small price to pay in order to give their children a racially segregated education.

Keith Davidson, headmaster of John Loughborough school, believes black children need special attention, and can benefit from being educated in a black school.

'There is', he says, 'a tendency - it is not overt or conscious - to perceive black children as not capable of doing well academically'.

ONE LAW

This latest experiment in racial segregation by Britain's blacks illustrates yet again that there is one law for 'ethnic minorities' and another law for the majority of British people. After all, if British parents tried to set up a racially segregated school to cater for the special needs of whites they would be hauled up in front of the Commission for Racial Equality and accused of 'racial discrimination'.

SCHOOLS JUST REFLECT SOCIETY

GRAHAM CLARKE taught in south-east London schools for nearly forty years. For five years, he was head of Hatcham Wood, a comprehensive run by the Labour-controlled Inner London Education Authority.

Last Christmas he retired at 53. 'I felt I didn't have anything left to give', he said.

Mr Clarke used to be a staunch Labour Party supporter, but his experiences in inner London schools have changed his political outlook: 'The Labour Party doesn't give a sod for the inner-city child. Its leaders suffer from political tunnel vision. I've always supported Labour but, after my experiences of the past six years, I don't think I can any more.'

FALLEN

Mr. Clarke has no doubt that educational standards have fallen in inner London. 'When I started teaching after the war, in a streamed all-ability school, my class was 1E. There was only 1F below it. We read Julius Caesar and went to see it at the Old Vic. You couldn't do that now ...

'Immigrants moved into the vacuum. They were extremely keen for their children to do well, and still are. My school was 60% ethnic minority ... There were children who came from Indian villages. The first time they had seen a city was when they were taken to Delhi Airport, they stopped overnight in Moscow, they landed at Heathrow. The next day we had them in school. We thought they were educationally sub-normal. We were terribly slow to recognise that there was such a thing as culture shock. We just didn't cope. The schools just began to fall apart'.

He concluded: 'I used to believe that schools could change society. Not any longer. They just reflect society back to itself!'

Minister worried

EDUCATION MINISTER, Angela Rumbold has contacted Cornwall Education Authority to alert them to the fact that National Front leaflets were being delivered to Cornish homes urging the setting up of NF groups within schools in the county.

Tory MP for Falmouth-Cambourne, David Mudd had lobbied the minister after being shown National Front leaflets telling children how to set up a National Front cell in their school. He described the leaflet as being 'little more than a blatant incitement to revolution and a reversal of the unwritten rules that most political parties have followed in keeping party politics out of the classroom'.

A spokesman for Cornwall NF found the MPs remarks 'laughable'. 'Political indoctrination in the classroom goes on every day. Teaching methods today are brainwashing children into believing that multi-racialism is a beneficial necessity to society. Our leaflets are intended to redress that balance.'

First Time Effort

TORBAY NF were more than happy with 56(1.7%) candidate Tony Earnshaw polled in Coverdale Ward.

It was the first time the NF have fought local elections in the area and the vote and response to the election leaflet has given the local branch a good base to work from.

PORTSMOUTH NF were satisfied with the 57(2%) they polled in Nelson Ward in the local council elections.

It was the first time the Front had fought the ward and a number of new recruits were gained.

NIGHT AFTER night police in the St Paul's area of Bristol are coming under attack from gangs of black youths waging a war to make St. Pauls a no-go area for the police.

On May 6th 150 black youths stoned police as they were called to investigate an incident involving a young woman who had been attacked.

May 7th bricks were thrown through the windows of a police car as the officers tried to arrest a man suspected of using stolen cheques. Forty black youths then forced the police car to beat a retreat as the man they were questioning ran off into a nearby house.

May 8th two policemen were injured in a night of running battles. Bottles, stones and lengths of chain were used against the police in clashes outside a gambling club in Campbell Street forcing the police to draft in re-inforcements in full riot gear.

The last two weeks in May have seen police patrols regularly ambushed by youths and forced to retreat under a hail of bottles and stones. Calls for assistance are made to the local Police Station but when the Police arrive at the scene they find the street lights have been put out and they have walked into an ambush.

Chief Constable of Avon and Somerset, Ronald Broome, says he needs another 500 officers immediately if they are to stem the rising crime rate. Speaking on the month of disorder in St. Pauls he said,

'People are attacking the police because they want to drive them off the streets. We must signal to them that we are not going to allow this to happen.'

'There is an ever present risk of serious disorder in St Pauls and in other parts of Bristol.'

Assistant Chief Constable of Avon and Somerset, Mr. John Harland, said that knives are being produced in about 70% of muggings in inner-city Bristol.

ASIAN ANGER OVER REMARKS

THERE ARE five million illegal immigrants in Britain. That was the claim made by Judge Michael Argyle, speaking to law students at Trent Polytechnic.

The 71 year-old judge pointed to Bradford as proof of his claim.

The Asian Lord Mayor of Bradford responded to Judge Argyle's claims by calling for an inquiry by Lord Hailsham, the Lord Chancellor.

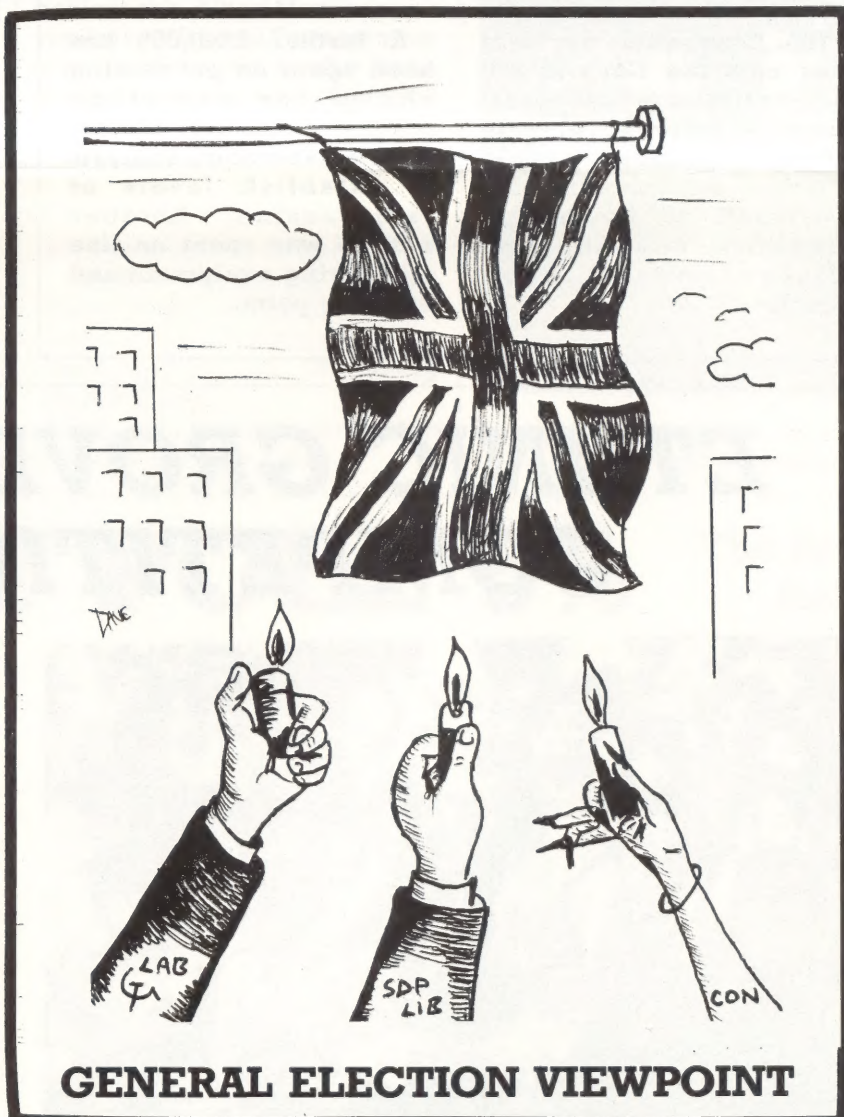

■ Bradford's Mayor

Mohammed Ajeeb, Britain's first Asian mayor, said Judge Argyle's comments were stupid and irresponsible.

The majority of British people would not agree with Mr. Ajeeb. On the contrary, far from regarding the judge's comments as stupid and irresponsible, the bulk of the British people will regard them as timely and long-overdue.

What is more the judge pointed to five million good reasons for voting National Front!

AIDS campaign wins friends

YARMOUTH NF organiser Tom Holmes is leading a local campaign against an AIDS hotel being set up in the town.

With five letters printed in local papers in just one week Tom and the National Front have led the rallying call against a project designed to turn Yarmouth into a homosexual resort on a par with Brighton.

Despite being attacked in the local press by the homosexual lobby and local Labour Councillors, Tom Holmes has won a lot of support from local residents and the town's tourist trade in particular. Yarmouth's top hotel wrote to Tom, as organiser of Gt. Yarmouth National Front, inviting him to an open evening to inspect the facilities they had to offer.

'Please join us for a bite to eat and a glass of wine. We look forward to welcoming you and discussing the wide range of services that we can offer your organisation.'

Political Commitment

ON MAY 7th ITN News, in its 5.45pm bulletin, inferred that the National Front was involved in organising soccer violence.

This being untrue the National Front has made a complaint to the IBA over the bulletin.

On May 9th, the Daily Mail in an article 'Salute of Hate' claimed that a mass of National Front literature was found at the homes of those arrested in the Metropolitan Police's Operation Own Goal.

This being untrue the National Front has made a complaint to the Press Council over the article.

On May 13th The Sun claimed that the individuals jailed for their involvement in soccer violence in Operation Own Goal were members of the National Front.

This being untrue the National Front has made a complaint to the Press Council over the article.

On May 14th Channel 4 in its Comment programme claimed that violence and racism at football matches was orchestrated by the National Front.

This being untrue the National Front has made a complaint to the IBA over the programme.

So once again the National Front is fighting to protect its reputation through the only channels left open to us. It is a long, slow and hard battle but in the end, if we clear our name it is all worthwhile.

But why this sudden onslaught on us?

I have no doubt in my mind why. We have, in the last few weeks given our enemies heart. Our decision not to fight the General Election, a decision which we had no choice but to take, has given opponents of the National Front a moral boost in their efforts to push us out of the political arena.

They never come back — is a boxing term for fighters who retire and then hope to make a comeback. No doubt our opponents believe our absence from the General Election means we have abandoned the democratic road. With this in mind they no doubt think that one final push to associate us with activities which threaten the equilibrium of the Nation will be the final step on the ladder to get us banned.

But the National Front will prove them wrong. We must prove them wrong. For the sake of our party and the sake of our country the NF must hang on in the British political arena.

How can we do this with our meagre resources? The answer is simple. Next May must see not ten NF local election candidates, nor a hundred — but literally hundreds. Every National Front branch must put up at least half a dozen candidates. It will cost nothing, but it will buy us so much.

It will buy us our credibility. It will buy us our political credentials again and more important it will buy us time in our battle to win back our country.

While the other political parties sink back exhausted during the summer after their General Election efforts, we must be planning. Planning the biggest demonstration of National Front political commitment since the Council election of May 1978.

THE TED BUDDEN COLUMN

SHADES OF ROME

YET AGAIN HAS Mr. Greville Janner, MP, demonstrated his amazing vitality. Not only does he manage the onerous task of representing his Leicester constituents in Parliament, presumably to their satisfaction since the poor saps regularly re-elect him, but he also devotes an incredible amount of time to the pursuit of purely Jewish interests.

My life, what energy! Why he's virtually a one man kibbutz.

Mr Janner, a particularly oily and unctuous specimen of his kind, does have one little fault that somewhat tarnishes his prodigious talents — he seems to regard Britain as just another captive province of Imperial Zion.

Possibly overwhelmed by the success of Jewish zealots in banning plays and burning books that displease them, Mr. Janner's latest venture into the spotlight has taken him just a wee bit over the top.

VENGEANCE SQUAD

In using his parliamentary position in an attempt to assist the activities of the vengeance squad from the Simon Wiesenthal Pound of Flesh Institute, he has displayed the kind of arrogance and impudence that has even alienated those who are normally eager to lick his boots.

The Pound of Flesh Institute, having scoured the world for ex-Nazis, has run short of victims to persecute and has turned its attention to the lesser fry whose only crime was probably that of being insufficiently servile to Imperial Zion.

These latest intended victims are the Latvians, Lithuanians and Estonians who joined the German army in the hope of freeing their countries, after they were seized by the Russians in 1939, and who are now living in Britain. It apparently matters not at all that these men are now in their seventies (for all I know this may be Strangle a Septugenarian Year in the Jewish calender) or that the persecution of old men is peculiarly repellent even in decadent Britain.

Mr Janner pressed ahead with his demand to the Home Secretary that these ailing villains should be brought to book. Not surprisingly, he received a dusty answer for even a Tory worm can turn. Britain is still, at least nominally, a Christian country and to demand that we assist in throwing Christians to the lions (or, in this case, the sharks) is a bit too much for even a subject people like the British to stomach.

ABILITY TO CONVINCE

It is rumoured that intelligent Jews have urged Mr Janner to lay off since his zeal is tending to highlight the amazing similarity between Imperial Rome and Imperial Zion. The Romans, also a cruel and ruthless people, used to take pleasure in parading their enemies through the streets of Rome in chains. It seems that the Israelis and their agents overseas are hell-bent on imitating them, even though the victims may be barely able to walk.

The Jews owe their success to their ability to convince the half-witted Goyim that they are a persecuted people worthy of sympathy. If the persecuted are perceived to be in reality the persecutors, the cover is blown. What then Mr. Janner?

By Any Other Name

ALF DUBS is the name. If you have never heard of him, you should know that he is one of the leading lights in Labour's freak show. He is, in fact, Labour's weasel-featured Home Secretary in waiting and, with any luck, he'll be waiting a long time.

Just the other day, a private member's bill was being progressed through Parliament. Sponsored by Mrs Jill Knight MP., its object was to ban the promotion of homosexuality in schools as just another kind of normality.

Nothing controversial there, you may think. How wrong you are.

For up popped Labour's Alf Dubs to kill the bill on the pretext that it had not been properly discussed. So what is there to discuss? The merits of sexual aberration?

In Scots dialect, a dub is a pool of foul water.

Dubs, you may consider, is an appropriate name for a bilge rat!

Britain's Nuclear Power Plants being Built Abroad!

■ Nuclear Power: Foreign subsidies mean British firms are undercut.

MANY of the contracts for building Britain's new Sizewell B Nuclear Power Plant are being placed abroad. Sizewell's main pressure vessel is being built by the French firm Framatome, while the British firm Babcock has already given £5 million of sub-contracts to three Japanese firms: Kawasaki, Kobe and Japan Steel.

Many of these foreign companies can sell their products more cheaply because they receive subsidies from their governments for work on nuclear power.

Just to rub salt into the wound Japan refuses to buy any products from Britain or any other country for its domestic nuclear power schemes.

COST OF CHERNOBYL

THE Chernobyl accident has cost the Government £2.64 million in compensation payments, just to Welsh farmers alone! Figures for compensation payments to farmers in England, Scotland and Ulster haven't been disclosed.

A further £240,000 has been spent on purchasing sheep for sampling purposes and in meeting costs of laboratory analysis to establish levels of radiocaesium. Another £75,500 was spent on live monitoring equipment and marking paint.

THE HUMAN COST OF NUCLEAR POWER

ABOUT TWO thousand people may die in Europe over the next fifty years because of the Chernobyl nuclear disaster, according to the National Radiological Protection Board.

In a study published last month, the board estimates that the accident may cause fatal cancers in about a thousand people in the European community alone. About three times as many will contract non-fatal cancers. In the UK several dozen will probably die.

The calculations come from the first complete assessment of the effects of Chernobyl on Europe, which the board has carried out on behalf of the European Commission. The study deals with the EEC countries only, and has produced estimates on the numbers likely die, much lower than previous ones.

The American surgeon Robert Gale, who went to Moscow immediately after the fire and carried out highly-publicised operations on Soviet workers irradiated at the plant itself, claimed in February that there could be more than 75,000 cancer deaths from Chernobyl. He said that two-thirds of them would be among Europeans outside the USSR.

The very wide difference between the estimated number of deaths predicted by Dr. Gale on the one hand and the Common Market board on the other are interesting to say the least. Indeed, some seasoned observers have accused the Common Market of a cover-up.

The fact remains, that whether the death toll following Chernobyl is two thousand or seventy-five thousand, the human cost of nuclear power is still too high.

JAMES PULLAR from Bolton is on course to capture a £5.00 postal order and a free subscription to The FLAG with the above picture and caption of Labour's Roy Hattersley on the election trail.

LESSON IN FIJI

Dear Sir,

The people of Britain have an ominous lesson to learn from the situation in Fiji, which is attracting heavy but no doubt fleeting press coverage. The Indians, migrating in large numbers, and with their excessive birth rate, have already grasped control of the economies of Uganda and Madagascar. This has in the end enraged the indigenous populations and resulted in mass expulsions.

Apart from the continued large and undesirable influx of Indians to this country, there is already a large differential of birth rates between indigenous and immigrant sections of the population. At these present rates, we could see a situation like that of Fiji, with equal numbers of coloured and white people in less than a generation, offering a perturbing dilemma for us all.

SLAYER — ANTI-LIFE

ON THE 22nd April Paul and I went to see American Heavy Metal groups Slayer and Malice.

First up were Malice who were a very good Heavy Metal group much like Judas Priest in style. The only fault the band has is that they could do with a new vocalist, as their current one sang none too clearly during most of the band's live set. This gripe aside, their current album Licensed to Kill, is available now, and I recommend it.

Coming on to the headliners Slayer, I can only say that while I enjoyed the band's obvious enthusiasm for their music, I found the majority of Slayer's song lyrics negative and corrupt.

I cannot in all honesty recommend to Nationalists a band with songs like In Praise of Death, Post Mortem, Criminally Insane, Necrophiliac or Black Magic. It cannot be said that the band will grow out of producing such songs as all three albums produced by the group Haunting the Chapel, Hell Awaits and Reign in Blood contain songs with similar sentiments. In addition to this in five recent interviews that I have read about Slayer, the group's

CURRYING FAVOUR

Dear Sir,

Reading your article concerning Labour's Black Sections in The FLAG, prompted me to write and tell you that Labour aren't the only ones currying favour.

The official Conservative candidate for the Ashley Ward of Bristol, my home town, is a West Indian who was pictured in the Bristol Evening-Post in tribal dress!

The vast majority of the population of Ashley Ward are English with only a tiny West Indian population living in the Monpelier area of the ward.

It would appear that the Tories are trying to curry favour with an ethnic minority, and in the case of Ashley Ward's West Indian population, MINORITY is a very accurate term.

CHARMING LADIES

Dear Editor,

I was disappointed with the photograph you published of our St George's Day March through Brierley Hill.

It was an excellent march, most orderly, and led by two charming young ladies carrying a colourful banner.

guitarist and singer Kerry King, has confirmed that they have no intention of altering the sickening shock-value nature of their lyrics. They are not a band I would like my kids to emulate, and I certainly wouldn't want other people's children to be influenced by a group spouting such anti-life sentiments.

That said I don't want to give the impression that I'm against all

COMPLETELY HONEST

Dear Sir,

I think The FLAG is the best Nationalist paper in Britain, but I do wish that you would ensure that your propaganda is factual. In my opinion exaggerated claims only serve to undermine the credibility of your message.

In the May issue you stated that 'Out of all Britain's political parties only the National Front pledges to get Britain out of the Common Market!' To my knowledge, at least two other parties are committed to this - namely the Communist Party and the British National Party.

Let's leave half truths and inaccuracy to our opponents, by sticking to the facts we can only enhance our reputation. On the other hand, if people feel you are not being completely honest on one issue - this may make them sceptical about other stories/reports in the paper.

With regard to Les Payne (Letters May), I believe I am right in saying that it is illegal to collect money in the street without a license. This should be checked out, we don't want our papersellers getting arrested - they have enough hassle to put up with as it is!

Keep up the good work.

FLAG SPORT

POWER TO THE SUPPORTERS

by Joe Pearce

HALIFAX TOWN BECAME the first Football League team to be owned by a local authority at the end of last season.

Calderdale District Council approved a plan to rescue the bankrupt Fourth Division side by converting the £42,000 it is owed into a 51% shareholding. The council also purchased Halifax Town's lease on the Shay stadium.

The FLAG supports wholeheartedly this ambitious plan to save Halifax Town, a small club at the heart of the local community.

But the plan doesn't go as far as it should do.

It is surely time for a radical overhaul of the system of ownership to which football clubs have been shackled for far too long.

At the moment clubs are at the mercy and the whim of millionaire members of the board. These rich members are often more interested in profits and publicity than they are about the clubs they own.

This system of ownership must end.

Instead, football teams should be owned jointly by their local municipal authority and the loyal supporters who go to see the team play each week.

Every time a supporter passes through the turnstiles at a home match he should receive one 'share' in the team he supports. Thus the more a supporter pays to see his team play the more shares he receives. These shares should confer voting rights at the club's annual general meetings and a dividend at the end of the season if the club makes a profit.

Such a system will give loyal supporters and local communities a real say in the running of football clubs. Furthermore, such a system of ownership will stop football clubs being the playthings of the rich.

The FLAG says: Power to the supporters.

The Decline in the health of our youngsters

IN A RECENT survey of 5,161 Head Teachers the following shocking record is revealed:-

★ 95% of all schools have experienced a 'rapid decline' in weekend and after-school sports fixtures in the last two years.

★ Nearly half of all playing fields fall below the minimum standards set by the Department of Education.

★ Children aged 12 - 14 have an average of only two hours exercise a week.

★ 75% of pupils have no opportunity to learn to swim at school.

Keith Smith, Secretary of the Secondary heads' Association told a conference of the Central Council of Physical Recreation that, 'It is time to say there is a crisis in many parts of Britain'.

It was also revealed that at present 547 fields, in part or whole, have been or are about to be sold.

Is it any wonder that Britain's traditional excellence in sport is beginning to go the same way as Britain's industries — the decline in both is very damaging to the health and well-being of Britain's youngsters.

It is time for urgent action to be taken — starting with the attitude of many of our teachers.

■ Ian Botham: He is not bigger than the game of cricket.

Bigger than Botham!

by Ian Anderson

WHEN A BUNCH of American rowers attempted to dictate who was going to be in the Oxford rowing eight, the majority of the press, quite rightly, felt that the team should be selected by the coaches and the team manager.

However when full-time media star and part-time cricketer, Ian Botham, attempted to determine who was to play for Somerset the media took quite a different line. Who were the country fuddy-duddies who ran Somerset Cricket Club? — how dare they decide that they no longer wanted West Indians Viv Richards and Joel Garner. Wasn't this an appalling outburst of racialism?

Then Ian Botham announced that if his chums left then so would he. The press announced that surely this would make the county give way and let Ian Botham choose the whole team. But when the Somerset Committee stood firm behind their decision, the media gloated that by sacking Richards and Garner and losing Botham they had probably wrecked Somerset as a major cricketing force.

How pleasant it is then to be able to report that Somerset is doing rather well this season. Heading their table in the Benson and Hedges Cup and recently trouncing Hampshire by scoring 319 for 2 against Hampshire's 248 all out.

We can still admire Ian Botham as a cricketer, but he should remember that that is all he is — a damn good cricketer — and certainly not indispensable to any team, or, if it comes to that, to cricket.

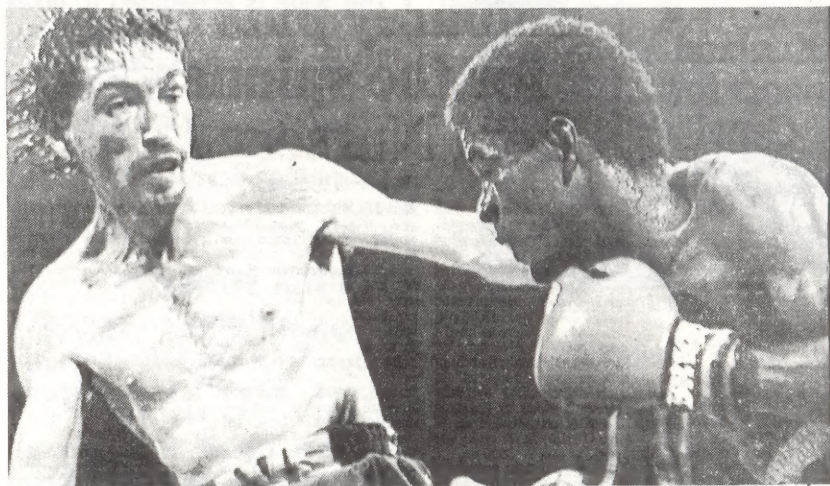

Pride at the King's Hall Belfast

By Jimmy Grundle

ANYONE WATCHING the World Flyweight Championship fight on April 25th could only feel sorrow and sadness for Dave 'Boy' McAuley in his heroic challenge to become world champion.

Ulsterman Dave with only thirteen professional fights behind him put on one of the bravest fights ever seen in a British ring against an equally brave but rather dirty fighter from Colombia, Fidel Bassa, the reigning world champion.

Within the opening few seconds of the fight the Ulsterman was dropped by a well-timed right which stunned the local crowd at the King's Hall Belfast, but then miraculously he dragged himself up and then went on to floor the champion five times, twice in the third, once in the sixth and twice again in the ninth. If Bassa had hit the floor once more in the ninth, McAuley would have been world champion, but it was not to be, and in the thirteenth the brave Ulsterman finally folded under a barrage of blows from the Champion.

Although Dave 'Boy' McAuley lost, his determination and sheer courage left a feeling pride with all those in the King's Hall that their little man from Larne had given his very best against a formidable champion.

With Dave McAuley now turning to lightweight and with his excellent short left that floored a full flyweight champion, Ulster could be hailing a new champion in the near future.

We all wish him the very best.

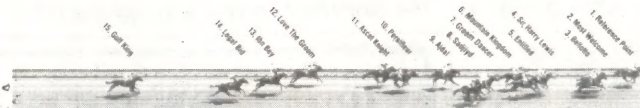

WE TOLD YOU SO!

REFERENCE POINT, The FLAG's ante-post advice for the Derby stormed home to win, Britain's richest race.

It was a 5-1 chance when The FLAG told its readers it was something special last month, and hundreds of FLAG readers took that price ensuring their bumper payout.

Once again our racing tips are putting money in your pocket. Pridden Jimmy, a horse who had hardly managed to finish a race when we told you to back him — has now won two races including a 6-1 victory at Huntingdon.

This month's advice is Paul Cole's Rockaria who won with a ton in hand at Bath on June 2nd and Pagitek Steve Norton's useful miler who looks sure to win in the next couple of weeks. Keep your eye out for this one.

The Times is taking an interest in our racing tips. Its Diary column telephoned Fulke Johnson-Houghton, trainer of Fort Wapping (FLAG tip May '87) to see whether the horse was any good. The trainer confirmed it would win a race.

Unfortunately it wasn't at Folkestone on June 1st when Fort

Wapping ran appallingly at 50-1 to finish a distance being winner Impeach.

Front runner

I was taken aback to hear of a race horse called Fort Wapping. It belongs to the wife of the trainer Fulke Johnson-Houghton, and she is a Telegraph reader. The horse is out of a mare called Hot Press, and Johnson-Houghton — who does read The Times — says, with true trainer's precision, that the horse "should win a race".
